THE BAREFOOT CONSERVATION CENTER

The establishment of a Conservation Center within the hotel, allowed us to develop a series of responsible activities for guests (such as snorkeling, dolphin watching, turtle identification and more). In this way, during the activities a double goal can be achieved: "fun" for the guests and environmental monitoring at the same time. In fact, during the excursions at sea, our marine biologist can carry out several types of environmental monitoring, in order to collect data on the ecosystem and monitor the impact of tourism.

Environmental and cultural bicycle tours: Hanimadhoo island is authentic and locals warmly welcome all visitors.

Utheemu: (40 minutes by boat from Hanimadhoo), is the home island of the most revered and respected national hero, Sultan Mohamed Thakurufaanu.

Dolphin and manta monitoring: on a periodic basis, our Conservation Center scientific team leads boat trips to gather data on the distribution of the various dolphin and manta species that inhabit our beautiful atoll.

Turtle Cove Snorkeling: as this snorkeling site is a feeding ground for hawksbill turtles, the amount of individuals spotted here is significantly higher than in the surrounding areas.

Several times a week a complimentary snorkeling trip by boat to our house reef is organized by the marine biologist. Several excursions are conducted in the surrounding crystal waters including night snorkeling.

The Barefoot Eco Hotel follows the Ecotourism principles of uniting Sustainability and Conservation, while also involving the Local Community within its activities:

we use sustainably grown wood coming from responsibly managed forests; we use solar photovoltaic panels to generate electricity, limiting the use of diesel generators; we use energy-efficient lighting in order to reduce the electricity consumption; air condition serves as a water heater using the heat exchanger inside; we are able to bottle our own drinking water in re-usable glass bottles, drastically reducing our plastic waste.
